Entertainment Tonight.

"In and Around the Holy Land," is the title of the descriptive journey through Palestine to be given at the Court House this (Thursday) evening for the benefit of the Methodist church. Prof. E. A. Fox, general secretary of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, will deliver the lecture, using stereoscopic views. Admission 25c, children 15c.

Attention Veterans.

A very important meeting of Camp M D Logan will be held at the Mason lodge rooms (over National Bank) next county court day, the 24th, and all veterans are urged to be present.
Important business.

Joe H. Arnold, Com'dr.

Local Notes.

$1.50 to Cincinnati Sunday.

There will be preaching at the Fork church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The noted Evangelist, W. J. Wright of Washington D. C. will preach at Christian church Friday night 14th.
The public is cordially invited.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will meet with Mrs. Higginbotham next Saturday afternoon.
Important business requires presence of every member.

The charter of the National Bank of Lancaster has been re-extended.
This is one of the oldest and strongest institutions in the state, and its accommodating cashier, Mr. S. C. Denny adds new names to its list of friends every day.

The business men have made up enough money to have the streets sprinkled during the summer and the contract will be let in a few days. The work will be done with a water wagon which will be kept running all day.
This is a good move, as the worn-out streets make much dust.

Newspaper Man For Mayor.

Editor Sam Menefee, of the Danville Advocate, has announced his candidacy for mayor of that thriving little city, and we join his many newspaper friends in hoping that he will win in a walk. Danville is growing rapidly and needs just such a hustler as Sam at her helm.

Called to Owensville.

Eld R. M. Campbell, of this city, has accepted a call as minister of the Christian church at Owensville, Ky., and will take charge at once. The church is a large one and located in a fine town. His many Lancaster friends are glad to know that he will be so pleasantly located.

To Our Friends.

We wish to state, through the columns of the Central Record, that we appreciate, deeply, the many acts of kindness from our friends during our great bereavement. We will ever remember our dear friends, and our prayer is that God's richest blessings may rest upon each and every one of those who came to us in time of distress.
Miss Julia Reid.
Chas. M. Reid.

Stone Post Office Robbed.

The large business house of Mr. C. S.
Sanders, at Stone, this county, was broken into Sunday night, the safe blown open and the postoffice robbed.
Mr. Sanders, who is post master, tells The Record that $200 in money, about $10 worth of stamps and $500 in notes were taken. Bloodhounds were telephoned for, but lost the track after trailing a few hundred yards from the store. Mr. Sanders offers a big reward for the arrest and conviction of the parties.

A Deserved Honor.

At a meeting of the directors of the Richmond State Bank & Trust Co., Col. Stone Walker on account of ill health, tendered his resignation as president and Hon. Jerry A. Sullivan, was chosen to fill the vacancy. The selection of Mr. Sullivan is a good one, as there is no more deservedly popular citizen in central Kentucky. An able lawyer, a true friend and a typical gentleman are some of the characteristics which fit him for any position within the gift of the people.

Week of Prayer.

The C. W. B. M. Auxiliary will observe the "Week of Prayer," beginning April 16th with a sermon on Consecration by the pastor, Eld. F. M. Tin-der and continuing through the week with meeting in the homes of the members. The conclusive service will be held in the church Sunday afternoon April 22 and will be a childrens meeting at which the Easter envelopes of the children and the Thank offering boxes of the C. W. B. M. women will be collected. All are welcome at these services.

Confederate Veterans.

Local Confederate Veterans are making extensive preparations to attend the Reunion at Louisville June 14, 15 and 16. At a recent meeting, Miss Mary Lear, the handsome and charming daughter of Mr. B. F. Lear, was chosen as sponsor for the Camp, and she has generously consented to accompany the old veterans to the reunion. The people of Louisville are making extensive preparations for the entertainment of the thousands of visitors who will attend and a glorious time is anticipated. The Lancaster Camp will have an important meeting court day, and all are urged to attend.

We have heard many compliments passed upon the Gaines Hotel, of this city, and, as most of them came from "drummers" (whose chief stock in trade is to kick) we became interested and went down, last Sunday, to try one of the meals. Considering the markets, Mr. Gaines sets a remarkably good table. The cooking and seasoning are perfect, and every appointment about the house as neat as a new pin.
When it is remembered that there is not a building in town suitable for a hotel, the fact that a visitor can get "a place to lay his head" is a fortunate one. The Record, who has done its level best to boost up Lancaster, still has a faint hope that those citizens who have cornered the cash of the town will yet unloose their purse-strings and build a hotel and opera house.

An Important Matter.

The Production of Hemp is Chief Topic of Conversation

The Louisville Courier Journal Prints Lengthy Article on Subject.

Those of our readers living at a distance will possibly think we are devoting too much space to the question of hemp-raising, but if they knew the interest taken in the question by the farmers of central Kentucky, the importance it is to the farming interests of our section they will readily agree that there is no matter we can publish that is of more value to the farmer.
Local farmers have had a pretty hard row to hoe in recent years, and all occasioned by the labor problem. Now that they can have the hemp crop handled almost entirely by machinery there is cause for much rejoicing among the land owners in this section.
Last Sunday's Courier Journal published several illustrations of the hemp industry, and we believe the question has attracted so much attention that the entire article published in that progressive, able and up to date paper will be appreciated by the readers of the Central Record. The entire article in the Courier Journal is as follows:

The cultivation of hemp has for many years been a very important matter with the Kentucky farmer, but there is more interest manifested at present than for some time. There are several reasons for this, the principal one being the assured fact that machinery has been invented whereby the hemp can be broken and cleaned, and the equally important fact that, when a farmer plants a crop of the valuable product he has perfect assurance that he will be able to get the hemp prepared for market.

All farmers are painfully aware of the scarcity of labor, and know the annoyance experienced in securing hands to do even the lightest of farm work. Hemp breaking is the hardest work on the farm. It requires strength and indefatigable endurance. The dust from the hemp gets into the breakers' throat and lungs, and the weather is frequently damp and cold, making the entire process so disagreeable that a man will not follow this pursuit if he can make a living at other work.

Before the civil war, when the health of the Negro was almost perfect, when his physical condition was watched by his owner with the same care that the Kentuckian watches the welfare of a good horse, the race was in far better condition than today, and it was an easy matter to find a Negro man who could do as much work in a day as can be done by two of the present generation and feel none the worse. That the physical condition of the colored people has greatly deteriorated, is evidenced by the fact that they can not do half as much work as their ancestors. Some people seem to think the invention of hempbreaking machinery will work a hardship on the colored man, but it is quite the reverse. Recently-invented machinery does away with the hardest, most slavish part of handling the crop, and as it assures the farmer that he can get his crop on the market, as a matter of course more hemp will be raised.
This means that much more farm work must be done, and with this increase in labor of a character much easier and which pays as well, it is easy to see wherein the colored man will be greatly benefited, as he will have more work, much more pleasant work and labor bringing him as much money as that requiring him to work like a galley-slave. So the laborer should rejoice with the farmer that the invention now attracting so much attention has been put into the field.

While hemp has been one of Kentucky's chief products for many years, yet few people have thought of the importance of the crop. Its production dates back to the earliest settlement of the State. One authority says Nathan Burrows, who came to Lexington in 1792, introduced the manufacture of hemp in 1796, but it was grown in Kentucky prior to that date. Kentucky was the first State in the Union to produce hemp, just as she was the pioneer in flax growing, the breeding of Durham cattle and many other pursuits.

The flax industry was introduced by immigrants from Ireland and in early times a great deal of linen clothing was made in Kentucky.

Flax-growing was discontinued in Kentucky after the invention of the cotton gin, but the hemp industry was enlarged, it proving a more remunerative crop. Cotton-raisers were compelled to use hemp wrapping and ropes to prepare their crops for market, and this caused a great demand for hemp.
The old-fashioned "rope-walks" (the name given the place where hemp was made into ropes by men stretching the fibre and walking from end to end weaving the fibre into a rope) and bagging factories were located in Lexington, Frankfort, Lancaster and other Kentucky towns, and gave employment to many hands. During the years 1845 to 1860, Kentucky produced 37,000 tons of hemp annually.
The Civil War cut quite a figure with hemp in Kentucky, as the devastation of the cotton crops in the South stopped demand for the hemp rope and bagging, and the production naturally diminished. Farmers continued to cultivate it, however, and those who had large quantities on hand at the close of the war, were made rich by the enormous prices paid. This caused a large production during the next year or so, but hemp growing again decreased by reason of the importation of jute, a weak inferior fibre, grown in India and other hot climates, which being almost free from duty, caused a great decline in prices on hemp. Up to this time, there was a great demand for hemp, however, as it was used to make ropes for all kinds of hoisting machinery, rigging on ships and many other articles, but the invention of the wire rope gave hemp another severe blow, and the production again declined. Then came the twine binder, which caused another leap forward in the amount of hemp produced. It was soon found that this could be made of sisal and jute, and the hemp producer again became luke-warm.

The present value of binder twine alone annually consumed in the United States is about $75,000,000.

Many of the largest factories have been compelled to seek other material for the reason that the supply of hemp was by no means assured; they would not make arrangements to manufacture goods of hemp for the reason that the supply would more than likely fall short and they would be "left with the bag to hold," as an old saying puts it.

In the meantime, many other uses have been found for hemp, and nothing has ever been discovered that will give as great satisfaction for the before-named purposes, other material being used only because hemp fiber could not be supplied in sufficient quantities, hand labor and lack of labor keeping the supply too uncertain.
There is always a demand for Kentucky hemp and mills, cordage factories and other industries are ever on the alert for it.

Hemp-breaking consists of separating the fiber from the stalk or "hurds," as the negro calls it. It is done altogether by negroes, with clumsy, wooden brakes, consisting of a frame with three stationary wooden blades and two smaller blades working on a pivot or hinge. The same method prevails in every hemp producing country.
This work generally commences in January. The average hand can break and clean about one hundred and twenty-five pounds. In olden times, a negro could break an average of two hundred and fifty pounds.

Hemp has an erect stem, more or less branch, and the leaves are live-fingered. It bears yellowish-green blooms. Hemp stalks are hollow or only filled with a soft pith, which is surrounded by a tender, brittle substance, consisting chiefly of cellular tissue, with some woody fiber, called shove or "hemp-hurds." On the outside is the thin bark, composed principally of fibers, extending in a parallel direction along the stalk, with an outer membrane or cuticle.

The plant probably originated in Asia. From Herodotus and other writers we find that the ancients made hempen garments as fine as those made of flax. Finer linens are found on the oldest mummies than are now made in any country. Many of our older citizens remember how the Negro slaves' clothing was made from hemp fiber, the men's clothing consisting of shirt and pants, while that of the women was made in one piece, or dress, which came a little below the knees and was tied about the waist with a belt.

The United States Government has issued several compilations on the production of fiber. The fiber from flax, ramie and hemp plants produce certain fabrics far superior to those from cotton, and the displacement of the fabrics made from these fibers by cotton has been of comparatively recent date, and only since the introduction of labor saving machinery, notably the cotton-gin.

The very best land is required to grow hemp. Virgin soil sown to hemp can be followed by the same crop for many years, as only about 15 per cent of its substance is taken from the soil and 85 per cent from the atmosphere.
This makes it more desirable than any other crop. It is sown by drills, or sometimes "broadcast," the same as wheat. About one bushel of seed is used to the acre, and it requires no cultivation. It costs less to raise an acre of hemp than an acre of cotton, and the hemp produces on an average about four times as much fiber. It matures in three months, and when dark gray seed can be found in the head, it is ready to cut. In some places it grows to a height of fifteen feet, but the average crop is about seven to nine feet. It is cut close to the ground with a scythe, hook or machine and is spread thinly on the ground. It requires care to keep it from tangling.
It lies on the ground until the leaves wilt, and is then taken up and shocked.

In November it is again spread on the ground, the rains and freezes rotting the stalks and loosening the lint so that it can be easily removed.
When sufficiently rotted it is again taken up and placed in small cone-shaped stacks, these stacks resembling an Indian village or camp. While all this work is hard, yet the main labor comes in breaking the hemp. This work is so hard that men will not do it if they can find other employment.
The farmers, rather than take chances on being forced to let their crops decay in the field have planted other crops, knowing they would not get as much in return, but being afraid of losing their time, work and money spent in raising hemp. Now that this obstacle has been removed and a machine proved beyond the peradventure of a doubt that it will break and clean the hemp far better than can be done by hand, a revival of the hemp production in Kentucky, it is claimed, will come and many dollars will be put into the pockets of farmers who are now making a hand-to-mouth living simply because they cannot get hands to prepare their best-paying crops for the market.

The value of raw fiber now imported into the United States amounts to from forty to fifty millions of dollars annually, and of manufactured goods, hundred millions of dollars. The duty on manufactured goods is about 40 per cent, while that on raw fiber is comparatively nothing. Here is an opportunity for our Kentucky statesmen to greatly benefit their country by putting raw fiber on the high tariff list.

For a number of years two brothers, Messrs. W. A. and A. M. Shely, formerly of Lexington, Ky., but now of Chicago, have been working on the hempbreaking machine outlined by their ancestors, so it may be seen that the new method is not the work of a day.
They finally completed the machine and sent out for all kinds of hemp to make the test in the factory where it was built. This proved so successful that a company was formed, of which James E. Keith, of Chicago, is president, and who is now here with the machine in operation near Lancaster.
Garrard being the largest hemp producing county in the State, H. A. B.
Marksbury & Son induced the company to bring the machine here, and it has proved beyond any doubt that it will do all the inventors anticipated.

In previous attempts at breaking hemp by machinery, the stalks have been started into the machine endwise and as a matter of course, the fiber became tangled, clogging the machinery. In this machine it is "fed" sidewise or laterally, and is broken from both ends toward the center simultaneously, and is also scythed by the same revolving braking bars. The fiber comes out perfectly clean and free from tangle, entirely and absolutely uninjured by the cleaning.

The machine is driven by an ordinary traction engine, which hauls it about the field or country as easily as the common thrasher is moved. At present the machine is doing the work of one hundred men per day, but the speed can be increased. It is made entirely of steel, and is so simple that any ordinary machinist can operate it.

A steady, certain supply of hemp fiber being assured, we can look for the establishment of manufactures in the South to make linen cloth of which there is none now in the United States excepting one or two making coarse toweling. It is not necessary to go into details of what a benefit this will be, not only to Kentucky, but to the entire country. Instead of driving labor away it will attract it where the hemp is grown.

LOUIS LANDRAM.
Entered at the Post Office in Lancaster, Ky., as Second-Class Mail Matter.
Lancaster, Ky., April 14, 1905

A New York preacher is to be tried by the officers of his church on the charge of kissing one of his congregation, a beautiful young widow. The fact that he did so is conclusive proof of that minister's good sense, and we'll venture to say the howl against him was raised by some of the soured old sisters whom no man would get within fifty feet of.

President Roosevelt is spending several weeks hunting in the wilds of Colorado. If he meets a bear, he'll waver a stack of chips that he will run even better than he did last November.

The son of Jesse James, the famous bank robber, has taken up the study of law. A much easier and far less exciting method of following in the footsteps of his notorious Pa.

That preacher who said the stage exerts a greater influence than the pulpit had more than likely heard some of his own flock criticising his sermons.

BYATTSVILLE.

Mr John A. Sanders and little son, Charlie visited his sister, Mrs N. B. Ray at Kirksville, Friday.

Mr Dan Donahue, who has been visiting his parents at Lebanon for several months has returned home.

This city is on a boom, two new dwellings are to go up shortly, and prospects of more in the near future.

Mr Thomas Kelly, who moved from this place to Campbellsville, the first of the year was here on business Saturday.

A feeling of the deepest gloom and sorrow prevailed the entire community when the sad news was proclaimed that Mrs H. C. Arnold died of consumption on Tuesday morn at 2:10 o'clock. Mrs Arnold had been in failing health for a year, she was a patient sufferer and bore her afflictions with that fortitude so characteristic of her. She was married when quite young to Mr H. C. Arnold, who survives her, together with four sons and daughters. She was a daughter of Mr Wm Henry, deceased, one of Garrard's prominent farmers and leaves one sister and one brother, Mrs Jno A. Sanders and Mr Richard Henry, of this place. She was a member of the Methodist church and being the perfection of true and noble womanhood, always ready to offer a kind word or commit an act of charity. She was a friend to everybody. In society she was a bright jewel and in the home circle, a loving, dutiful wife, a fond and affectionate mother. While the separation is bitter, it would be selfish to desire her return from the abode of saints, to this sin-cursed world. Funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church, by Dr E. H. Pearce, of Danville interment following in Lancaster Cemetery.

The Ladies Aid Society of Lancaster Christian church will have a flowersale the first week in May. Call at Mount & Elkin's and see the flowers.

The U. D. C.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy held their regular monthly meeting with Mrs Cabell Denny, in her beautiful home, on Lexington street, Monday afternoon, with a large attendance. The meeting was unusually interesting. Mrs W. R. Robinson gave us briefly a few reminiscences of her own courage and sad experiences during the Civil War. Miss Fannie Doty, our historian, gave us a poem written about the men who enlisted as Confederate soldiers from Garrard county, giving the names: Mrs Ed Gaines read an article on the 40th anniversary of the close of the war, which I believe was the ninth of April. Miss Weakley, of Shelbyville, kindly furnished us some appropriate music, as also did the Misses Lear. Our president being absent, Mrs Jas A. Royston presided. We regret the removal of our beloved sister, Mrs Dr Herring, our vice president, from our chapter. We deeply sympathize with her children and sorrowing friends in this their irreparable loss. We will miss our dear sister, but God in His Wisdom has called her to a work more blessed than ours "God doeth all things well." Mrs Fannie Farra was elected vice president to fill the vacancy. Elegant refreshments were served by our hostess. We all felt that it was good to be there. "Let us be known by our deeds." U. D. C.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

To Joe S. Robinson.

Whereas, an All Wise Providence has seen fit to remove from our midst our brother, Joe S. Robinson, co-worker in the church and Christian Sunday school, be it Resolved: 1st. That we deplore this great loss, but humbly bow in submission.

Resolved: 2nd. That this Church and Sunday school has lost a wise, proficient helper and counselor.

Resolved: 3rd. We, as a body, extend our sympathy to his bereaved wife and family, and recommend his noble, christian character to the Church, Sunday school and all citizens at large.

Resolved: 4th. We ask that these resolutions be spread upon the minute book of this Sunday school, published in the Central Record, and a copy sent to his widow.

Respectfully submitted,

No Change in Time.

The new schedule on the L. & N. makes no change in the running time of trains on the Rowland branch, but changes their number. Instead of 21 and 22, the day mixed trains are No 25 (to Rowland) and No 26 (to Richmond). The passenger train to Cincinnati is No 9 now instead of No 11 and the morning train from Cincinnati is No 10.

Hats Draw Large Crowd.

The ladies were out in full force Saturday afternoon to see the displays of spring headwear at the several millinery stores. The displays this Spring are far more elaborate than before, and the ladies were delighted with all the stocks. Lancaster has three millinery stores, all right up to the minute in styles and patterns.

Easter Market.

The Ladies of the W. C. T. U. will have an exchange Saturday the 22nd, at the Post Office. Every thing good to eat at cut prices. Easter eggs and candy a specialty.

An elegant dinner was served and a most pleasant day spent. Mrs Price has remarkably good health and her legions of friends trust that she will be spared to celebrate many more anniversaries.

The Stanford Interior Journal has blossomed out in a new dress and is as pretty as a peach. As we learned to read from the L J and have a deep love for the Walton "boys" our delight in the paper's prosperity is unmeasurable.

Mr J A Yeager, who disposed of his property in this city, left this week for Tulsa, Indian Territory, where he will engage in business. Mr Yeager is a good citizen and a fine man, one we dislike to see leave. The Record wishes him great success in his new home.

We Appreciate This.

Richmond Climax:—The Lancaster Record, one of the cleanest little sheets in the State, has recently passed it fifteenth mile stone. Editor Louis Landrum has been with the Record most of his time, having succeeded Mr J R Mays, who died soon after the paper was started. We congratulate Brother Landrum upon the success his paper has achieved, and it goes without saying that there is no more popular newspaper man in the State than the gifted Editor of the Central Record.

Mrs. Mary Jane Reid.

The last edition of The Central Record had scarcely reached all its readers before another of Lancaster's prominent and best people, Mrs. Mary Reid, was called to her reward. She had been quite ill for some time, and her death was no surprise. She was the widow of the late T W Reid, one of Lancaster's most influential men and a prominent Odd Fellow. Mrs. Reid was beloved by all who knew her, her many acts of kindness to her neighbors and acquaintances having made a host of friends who deeply deplore her death. She was married in Lexington and came to Lancaster shortly thereafter, their home having been made in this city ever since that time. She was the first person to unite with the Lancaster Baptist church when the present building was dedicated, and she was a devoted member and earnest worker in the same, never failing to attend the services until poor health prevented. The last time she was able to go to church, her son happened to be in town and was asked to fill the pulpit, so the last sermon she heard was from the lips of her only boy. She leaves two daughters, Miss Julia and Mrs Mattie Woolridge, and one son, Rev Chas M Reid, pastor of the Baptist church in Middleboro. Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church, by Rev C S Ellis and Eld F M Tindler, Monday morning, after which the remains were laid beside those of her husband there to await the resurrection morn when the happy family will be again united in a world which knows no parting, grief or pain.

A Daredevil Ride.

Often ends in a sad accident. To heal accidental injuries, use Bucklen's Arnica Salve. "A deep wound in my foot, from an accident," writes Theodore Schuele, of Columbus, O., "caused me great pain. Physicians were helpless, but Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly healed it." Soothes and heals burns like magic. 25c at R. E. McRoberts drugist. 1m Miss Fannie Bishop, who has wide experience in handling flowers receives weekly shipments of hardy roses, geraniums, chrysanthemums, etc., and you will do well to see her before placing your orders.

The Central Record goes into nearly every home in Lancaster and Garrard county. There are several business establishments here who never advertise, consequently few people know they are in existence.

Cures Catarrhal Deafness.

One Week's Use of Myomeloid More Than Six Months' Treatment by Specialists.

In the treatment of deafness which is often a result of catarrh Myomeloid acts almost immediately upon the inflamed membrane and the hearing begins to return at once. A few days treatment will bring relief, and in three or four weeks, according to the severity of the case, a cure will be accomplished.

Miss Meeks of Mattewan, N. Y., says: "Myomeloid is truly wonderful. I have used it but a short time and see a great change in my condition. My hearing is improving rapidly, and I had no idea I would improve so rapidly in so short a time. My breath which was so offensive to myself and others, has lost its bad odor entirely. I have spent a great deal of money with catarrh specialists and can truly say that six months of their treatment is not equal to one month of Myomeloid."

R. E. McRoberts is selling Myomeloid upon the unusual plan of agreeing to return the money if the medicine does not cure.

A complete outfit costs only $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Myomeloid. The inhaler will last a lifetime, and there is enough Myomeloid for several weeks' treatment. Additional bottles of Myomeloid can be procured for 50 cents. Compare this small expense with the fees charged by specialists and then remember that if Myomeloid does not cure R. E. McRoberts will return your money.

Expressive Name For Indigestion

R. E. McRoberts Has Simple Remedy That is Guaranteed to Cure the Trouble.

No one word better expresses the condition of the sufferer from weak stomach or indigestion than "misery." The stomach is weak and cannot digest the food, so that there is no appetite, there are pains and grippings in the stomach and bowels, the head and back ache, and the misery goes to every organ.

Strengthen the stomach and the digestive system by the use of Mi-o-na. This is the only stomach remedy known that gives relief by strengthening the stomach and digestive organs. It is this principle that makes it a certain cure for indigestion. Other medicines may give temporary relief by helping digest the food, but they do not strengthen the stomach, and that organ gets weaker and weaker all the time.

R. E. McRoberts the reliable retail Druggist has so much confidence in this remarkable remedy that he guarantees a cure, or the money will be refunded. Mi-o-na costs but 50 cents a box. Ask to see the strong guarantee given with every box.

Mi-o-na is in tablet form and should be taken before each meal. Other remedies for stomach troubles and indigestion are taken after the meal, and decompose the good food you eat, but Mi-o-na used before eating strengthens the stomach, soothes and heals all irritation and inflammation, enriches the blood, and puts the stomach in such a healthy condition that it will take care of the food itself and there will be no pain and suffering.
